OPEC President Applauds Quantapoint and Ariosh Work in Nigeria

Development and Utilization of Indigenous Talent a Key Differentiator

Abuja, Nigeria (April 18, 2006) — OPEC President, Dr. Edmund Daukoru was campaigning for companies working in Nigeria to embrace a local content policy when he met with Ola Oshe, CEO of Ariosh, Quantapoint's Nigerian alliance partner. Mr. Oshe highlighted how Ariosh and Quantapoint have developed and utilized local content for providing laser scanning services for facilities in West Africa. Dr. Daukoru applauded Quantapoint and Ariosh's focus on consistently employing indigenous talent.

According to Mr. Oshe, "Quantapoint and Ariosh have a successful track record of providing as-built laser documentation to West African facilities, with more regional experience than any other company. We have developed specialized expertise in enabling clients to quickly extract value from the as-built laser documentation, such as by generating various types of 2D drawings and facilitating a comprehensive dimensional certification and control program. Compared to other technologies or traditional surveying, we have been consistently proven to save our clients millions of dollars and thousands of man-hours."
